Technology / Research and Development

In the development of the company we have always found the ideal mix between the inherited, traditional hand craft and the implementation of modern technology. All our production departments include the latest generation of machinery and technology:

- CNC machines in the Wood working section
- Latest software in the design department
- CNC digitalized marking of cutting patterns
- Single and multilayer cutting lines
- Double and triple seem sewing machines
- Automatic filling machines
- Special light tables for quality control of leather
- Tunnel for vacuum packing of product
- Barcode, radio frequency system controlling production and loading.

The many technological developments allow us to maximize the production process, maintaining the high level of quality.

Above all, we make sure that we select and control the best raw materials for our products.

Our latest development has been the installation of the Radio Frequency system that via a bar code reading, identifies the DNA of each product. The system offers a real time update of the progress of the order and identifies each individual team member involved in the production of the product.

The information from the Radio Frequency system updates our EXTRANET and allows the company, the sales people and the final customer real time production updates.
